DETAILED ACTION

Amendment

1. By amendment of February 17, 2006, claim 1 had been amended, claims 2 and 3 had been cancelled, and new claim 4 had been added. Thus, claims 1 and 4 are active in the instant application. The Office action follows:

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US/1,998,042 to Boothe in view of US/2,253,719 to McMahon (both of record).

Regarding claims 1 and 4, Boothe teaches (Fig. 1-4): a fuse cartridge comprising a fusible element (20) electrically connected between two terminals (12, 18) and a second and third elements (looped portions (20)) mechanically connected in parallel with a portion of said fusible element (20) between the two terminals (12, 18), said second and third elements being provided by looping the fusible element (20) about a first of said terminals (18) and being mechanically connected at the other end to an insulating portion (10) of the second of said terminals (12).

Art Unit: 2835

Further, Boothe teaches that said fusible element is looped through the holes in said first terminal and said insulating portion of the second terminal, but did not disclose that said first terminal and said insulating portion of the second terminal comprise pins around which said fusible element is freely lopped.

McMahon teaches (Fig. 7) a fuse having a fusible element (101), said fusible element (101) comprising a portion (104) being freely looped around a pin (105) of a terminal (86). It is also known to a person of ordinary skill in the fuse art at the time of the invention (i.e. basic mechanical knowledge) that round pins provide less friction than holes to wires being looped around/through them. Therefore, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the fuse art at the time the invention was made to substitute said holes of Boothe with pins of McMahon in order to reduce friction with the looping fuse element, thus enhancing reliability of the operation of the fuse.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
